Rough Cut Eastern White Pine Board & Batten
 Chicken Coop 2024 Price Sheet

Coops Available In Lean To & Quaker Styles

Built locally by old order Amish using freshly milled white pine. The pine siding has a lot of moisture and the boards can be quite rough. It is inherent nature of uncured pine to shrink, split, check during the aging process. Pine should be stained after it has dried (6-12 months) to seal the grain and keep the moisture out. These buildings may mold if not vented properly. You may also notice borer bees and insects are attracted to the pine. The soft nature of the wood cuts down the longevity compared to The Hen House Collection. For this reason the pricing is less expensive.
