Beginners Shed Buying Guide and Workbook

Some of our customers tell us they were a little overwhelmed when they learned all of the choices they have when selecting a new shed - the size, the colors, the options, etc. So, we've put together this simple work book that should help you get a crystal clear idea of what you're looking for! So print this up, give some thought to our questions, maybe answer them with your family, and it should uncover exactly what shed is right for you!

And most of all...have fun with it!

Print/fill out this form, and bring it with you when you come in to finalize and make payment

If you haven't done so already, make sure to check out our website and look for the section called "Things to Know Before You Buy". We cover a lot of really useful information in it and you'll be a shed expert in no time.

Step 1: What will you be using your new structure for?

- ☐ Basic Storage – stuff currently in the garage/basement/attic
- ☐ Lawn and Garden Equipment – riding/push mowers, potting soil, rakes/shovels
- ☐ Workshop – carpenter, craft booker, photographer, collector etc
- ☐ Private Retreat – clubhouse for adults or kids
- ☐ Pool Storage
- ☐ Home Gym
- ☐ Home Office
- ☐ Other: _____

Step 2: How much space will you need?

You know your belongings best. Create a list-in as much detail as you can of what you'd like to store:

Step 3: What size would work best?

Brief note before you choose

By far, the most common “complaint” we get from our customers is “I should have listened to you and gone with something bigger.” There always seems to be more stuff you want to put into your new storage shed than when you originally thought. It makes sense - by the second or third weekend, when you really start appreciating you can park both cars in the garage again, and you get used to having a neat and orderly home because you have everything organized in your storage shed; you probably will think of other things you want to store in it.

Area	Can be used for	We recommend
96-120 sq ft	Garden Tools, Push Mower and a Snow Blower, a little bit of boxed storage	8' wide x 12' long - 96 square feet works for small back yards, don't need a lot of storage. A riding mower here would be a tight fit. The smallest structure - 6' wide by 8' long is less than 50 square feet.
140-180 sq ft	Lawn tractor and push mower and snow blower. Still room for a small workshop. Use wall space for garden tools. Space leftover for box storage	10' wide x 16' long -160 square feet works well for nearly all our customers. Most popular size. Fits all the important items but not a lot of room to walk around. Pay special attention to where you will place your riding mower.
240-280 sq ft	Lawn tractor with the attached bagger, push mower and snow blower. Longer walls mean more hanging space for garden tools. Still have room to devote one end for 8' x 12' workshop	12' wide x 20' long is the best seller in the large shed category. If extra space to walk around is important, or you want some left over room for a functioning workshop, going with this larger size won't disappoint
280 sq ft and up	Vehicles - autos, trucks, small hobby tractors, ATVs, classic autos, boats, and all the items listed above	14' wide by 28' long are the dimensions for our popular single car garage models. Two car garages can be as large as 24' by 36'.

The size that would work best would be: _____
